Message from the Chief Electoral Officer for P.E.I.

I am pleased to present an interim report on the 2016 Plebiscite on Democratic Renewal which was conducted between October 29 and November 7th, 2016.

This event was the first time in Canada in which electronic voting was completed on a Provincial level, in conjunction with in-person voting and having 16 and 17 year old residents of Prince Edward Island qualified as electors.

This report contains information which may be of interest to the Members of the Legislative Assembly as the results of the plebiscite are put forward in the fall sitting of the Legislative Assembly. A complete follow up report will be presented to the Legislative Assembly prior to the Spring sitting of the Legislative Assembly.

I would like to thank my election team, Deputy Chief Electoral Officer Judy Richard, Manager of Election Operations Stephanie Thorpe, Director of Communications Paul Alan and all the Elections PEI support staff and all election officials across P.E.I. who assisted in coordinating the event. I would like to thank them all for their commitment and dedication to ensure the 2016 Plebiscite on Democratic Renewal was conducted in a professional manner.

Gary B. McLeod
Chief Electoral Officer

2016 Prince Edward Island Plebiscite on Democratic Renewal Summary

Eligible voters on Prince Edward Island were given a unique opportunity to vote on Democratic Renewal or as some refer to as Electoral Reform.

Legislation was passed in the PEI Legislative Assembly, allowing Elections PEI to register voters as young as 16 years of age on or by November 7th, 2016 to vote in the plebiscite. This was an historical event as voters this young have never been counted before in a provincial vote anywhere in Canada.

Electors had their choice of three ways to cast their vote for Electoral Reform. The voting period was ten days October 29th, 2016 until Monday November 7th, 2016. These ten days introduced electronic voting to Islanders; yet another first for Canada, with Internet Voting and Telephone Voting being used on a provincial scale. Voters who preferred the traditional paper ballot method of voting were allotted two days within the voting period; Friday November 4th, 2016 and Saturday November 5th, 2016.

To be eligible to vote, an elector had to be registered with Elections PEI, a Canadian Citizen and a resident of PEI from at least May 7th, 2016. Once verified, each eligible voter received a Voter Information Card (VIC) either in the mail at their residence or they could opt to receive it via email.

Electronic Voting

Every VIC contained a Personal Identification Number (PIN) that the voter needed to be able to vote online or by telephone. Elections PEI used the services of Simply Voting for the electronic voting procedure.

Whether a voter used the internet or the telephone, their confirmation of identity was their birthdates with matching PIN.

Paper Voting

22 Polling Stations were established across Prince Edward Island for the In-Person Paper Ballot vote. An elector simply had to arrive at a Polling Station, produce ID with their VIC and in return received a paper ballot for voting on the plebiscite. One change in the Polling Station procedure allowed voters to vote at any of the 22 Polls. They weren't tied to their own particular District Poll. This allowed for more convenience in the event people were travelling or voting if they were away from their residential area.

The Ballot

A Preferential Voting System was used to rank the five Electoral Systems on the Plebiscite Ballot. It was explained to voters they could rank as few or as many options as they desired, selecting their most preferred to least preferred. The ballot for the internet voters consisted of a drop down menu beside each option where a voter assigned a corresponding number of preferences to the systems. The number one for most preferred, the number two for second most preferred and so on. The telephone voting option prompted users to select an electoral system of choice by pushing a corresponding number on the telephone. For both electronic voting methods, electors were issued a confirmation code ID that confirmed their vote was recorded successfully and placed in the electronic voting ballot box. The paper ballot listed all five options horizontally in alphabetical order, with corresponding vertical lines for their choices. A voter was to select their most preferred option, and then mark in the designated circle in the first choice column. If they chose to rank more than one, they would make a mark in their second most preferred option vertical column.

This was the first time three voting methods were being utilized at the same time for a vote on Prince Edward Island. A "Dashboard" program allowed Elections PEI officials to monitor to vote and witness how the three voting methods recorded votes simultaneously and gave real time results.

Tabulation and Preferential Voting

The Paper Ballots were collected and electronically tabulated using a Tabulation Machine from ES&S Canada. Ballots were fed into the tabulator; capable of reading up to 300 sheets of paper per minute, and the votes were electronically recorded as the machine would take a picture or image of each ballot being fed through. Following the tabulation of all paper ballots, the electronic file was secured and then paired with the data from the electronic voting. When all the plebiscite votes were recorded and stored in one electronic file, the preferential voting analysis was applied to count votes for each individual electoral system on the ballot. For Preferential Voting, majority support an electoral system must receive more than 50% plus 1 of valid votes.

There was no clear winner after the first round, as no system earned the threshold of 50% plus 1 to earn majority support. Round two of counting excluded the system with the least amount of support (First Past The Post plus Leaders) and its votes were redistributed to the remaining systems on the ballot according to the electors' second choice on the ballot. Round two had no system earning 50% plus 1 so a third round of redistribution and counting was called, this time excluding the next system with the least amount of support, Preferential Voting. Those votes were redistributed to the remaining systems on the ballot according to the electors' next choice on the ballot. Again, no majority support so a fourth round saw the exclusion of Dual Member Proportional as it had the least amount of support of the remaining systems, and those votes redistributed to the two remaining electoral Systems. Following the fourth round of counting, majority support went to Mixed Member Proportional gaining 52.42% of the votes.

Internet voting was the most widely used method with 81% of all votes recorded by way of online. 9% of voting was completed by telephone and 10% by the Paper Ballot.

Public Education

Elections PEI was tasked with delivering the public education on the five electoral options which were presented on the ballot, and on the preferential vote which was to be used for the plebiscite. Further reporting on the public education campaign will be delivered in the follow up report.

Definitions

Preferential Voting : An electoral system where voters rank all the options on a single ballot according to preference. Voters may rank as few or as many as they wish. To receive majority support an electoral system must receive more than 50% of valid votes.

Excluded: An option is "excluded" from consideration if it has the lowest amount of votes and another round of counting is required, if no other option reached more than 50% support to achieve the threshold. Excluded votes are then redistributed based on the voter's next preference.

Exhausted: A vote or ballot is "exhausted" following the voters choice being "excluded", if there were no further preferences ranked on the voters' ballot or if their next preferred option has already been excluded.

Threshold: The number of valid ballots divided by 2, rounded down to the lowest whole number plus 1.

Interpreting the Results

The results of the 2016 Plebiscite on Democratic Renewal have been further broken down to be reported by District and Age Range. Special items to note are the breakdown of the results show only recorded valid votes. Rejected ballots are not reported in the results reports, but have been noted in the Summary of Results.

Rounds of Counting

Round 1

Shows all valid votes cast as indicated by their first preference.

Rounds 2-3

Show the total votes per option in each round of counting followed by a summary of the number of votes which were redistributed from the previous round. The total votes can be calculated by adding the number of redistributed votes for each option to the previous round totals. Exhausted votes do not carry forward into further rounds of counting.

Round 4

Mixed Member Proportional has reached the threshold of more than 50% of valid votes. No further rounds of counting are required.

Round 5

Statement of option reaching majority support.
